

one remedy a month, but since this proved to be impossible, he described remedies for which there were no provings or clinical experience. Instead he would combine the qualities of Alumina and Silica and speculate on the symptoms that would exist in Alumina silicata.

At the Homeopathic Congress of June 1908, Allen accused James Tyler Kent of publishing unreliable Materia Medica. James Tyler Kent retracted his position and never published a "synthetic" remedy again and actually removed them from the 2nd edition of his Lectures on Homeopathic Materia Medica. Allen was probably the only homeopath of his time who could stand up to James Tyler Kent.

Allen wrote Keynotes of the Materia Medica with Nosodes, Keynotes and characteristics with comparisons of some of the leading Remedies. Allen's Keynotes Rearranged and Classified, Keynotes of leading remedies, The Materia Medica of the Nosodes, The Therapeutics of intermittent fever, The Homeopathic Therapeutics of Intermittent Fever, The Therapeutics of Fevers; Continued, Bilious, Intermittent, Malarial. . . , The Homeopathic Therapeutics of Fever, Therapeutics of Tuberculous Affections, The materia medica of the nosodes with provings of the X-ray, and he also revised Boenninghausen's Slip Repertory, which he updated and arranged for rapid and practical homoeopathic work.

Allen also wrote The Vital Force, Notes on frequently indicated remedies, Notes on Sepia, Materia Medica Notes, Pyrogen - a clinical case, Tabacum-Some guiding symptoms, The dynamic element of the remedy, Nosode.

Dr. Allen sustained his youthfulness and vitality in his later years. Even into his seventies he was as active and as physically vigorous as men half his age. Known for his quick wit he was welcomed at gatherings for his lively repartee and engaging anecdotes.

Dr. Allen passed away on January 22, 1909 after working all day and seeing patients in the evening. Until his last days he was constantly working for the benefit of homeopathy.
