A lady aged 24 years, married since 5 years, tried all the other systems of medicines but with no results. As a last resort she came for homoeopathic treatment. She was an obese lady with thyroid problem. Her scan report revealed bilateral polycystic ovaries. She was prescribed with Calcarea Carb1M based on the symptom totality. After 3 months she had missed periods, Gravindex test was positive.

Natrum Mur

A female aged 25 years old consulted me for burning micturation and inability to conceive. Her investigation reports revealed moderate hypothyroidism which attributed its symptoms as weakness and drowsiness to great extent. My first prescription was Apismel 30 relieved the urinary complaints with in a week. My second prescription was Natrum mur. Next two follow ups she was better with her complaints and reported that she did not menstruate. Urine for pregnancy test revealed positive.

Both objective and subjective symptoms are of utmost importance in Homoeopathic prescribing. Infertility is treated mainly in the female restoring her to optimum health and achieving the highest level of fertility. The health or condition of the endometrium would be the primary focus in female in many cases. Ovarian cysts are also common obstracle. The individual symptoms will determine which medicine should be prescribed.

Successful in Female infertility

I have been exclusively treating cases of gynaecology and obstetrics since 1985, both in my private practice as well as my OPD at Shree Mumbadevi Homoeopathic Hospital at Bombay. Many cases had given good result and I am sure that homoeopathy has a lot to offer in cases of infertility, PCOD, DUB, etc. The approach to the selection of the remedy is different for each of the following cases- the prescriptive point is either the totality or the cause or a keynote.
